Sauereisen Donates Materials, Time to Boy Scout Camp Guyasuta

Pittsburgh, June 25, 2008 — O’Hara Township-based Sauereisen, a third-generation manufacturer of corrosion resistant materials, recently donated materials for a new swimming pool locker room facility at Boy Scout Camp Guyasuta, located in Sharpsburg, Pa. The materials included specialized blue corrosion-resistant coatings for the facility’s walls and flooring.

“As an Eagle Scout, this was a project I was so pleased our company was able to lend our time and resources to,” said Sauereisen president, Eric Sauereisen. “We really enjoyed working alongside the scouts to help make this project a success from start to finish.”

In addition to donating the materials, Sauereisen also partnered with the Boy Scouts to aid in the installation of the materials. Camp Guyasuta is used by more than 48,000 children in the Greater Pittsburgh Boy Scout’s Council.

Established in 1899, Sauereisen provides worldwide product distribution of corrosion resistant materials. The company is dedicated to establishing expertise in the prevention of corrosion and the restoration of structures affected by it.
